SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. The airfield is located about 5 km north of the village of Ruu (59°27'N/25°13'E), Estonian SSR, about 1 km north of the new Tallinn (59°26'N/24°45'E) - Narva (59°23'N/28°12'E) highway and about 4 km east of the Yagala River.
2. The installation was formerly a German advance airfield, the runways of which were slightly damaged. The field was surrounded by woods and had two concrete runways about 30 meters wide and intersecting each other at right angles. A tower-like log house with lights and red and white flags attached to it was located about 40 meters southeast of the intersection of the runways. A large number of aircraft of various types were parked in fire lanes cut into the woods at the northern edge of the field. The barbed-wire fence built around the field by the Germans was being dismantled.
